Canada must invest in services and supports for all Canadians so that no one will choose medical assistance in dying (MAiD) because they have no other options.

How are you supporting life as an alternative option to MAiD?

Options for supporting life include:

- ✓ Comprehensive adult and pediatric palliative care services based on a national standard for all Canadians.
- ✓ Increased services and support for people with disabilities, including home-based support and accessibility.
- ✓ Expanded delivery of high-quality, accessible mental health services as a full and equal part of Canada's universal health care.
- ✓ Public and professional education to help remove the societal prejudice that the lives of vulnerable people are less tolerable and valuable than the rest of Canadians.
- ✓ Greater emphasis on income stability, housing and the inclusion of the voices of vulnerable Canadians in government decisions that affect them.

Support to help all Canadians live with dignity.
